CONSTITUTION OF INDIA

Background (1/4): Why the Constitution matters

- It is the supreme law of India: it sets up the organs of government, divides power and protects rights.
- Constitutionalism means power is limited by law, and everyone, including the State, is under the rule of law.
- Engineers work inside these rules in public projects, safety, environment and contracts.

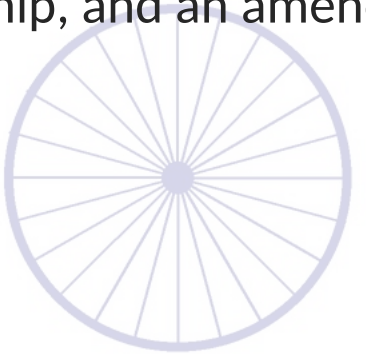

Background (2/4): How it was made

- Laws before 1947 shaped it: Regulating Act 1773, Government of India Acts 1858, 1909, 1919 and 1935, and the Independence Act 1947.
- The Constituent Assembly first met on 9 December 1946. Dr B. R. Ambedkar chaired the Drafting Committee.
- Adopted on 26 November 1949. In force from 26 January 1950, celebrated as Republic Day.

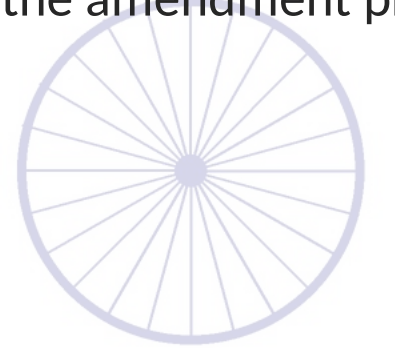

Background (3/4): Key features

- Preamble: Sovereign, Socialist, Secular, Democratic, Republic.
- Parliamentary and federal system with a strong Centre.
- Fundamental Rights (Part III), Directive Principles (Part IV) and Fundamental Duties (Art. 51A).
- Independent judiciary, single citizenship, and an amendment procedure (Art. 368).

Background (4/4): What you must know

- Terms: Preamble, Fundamental Rights, DPSP, Fundamental Duties, federalism.
- Be able to list the six Fundamental Rights (Arts. 12-35).
- Be able to state how Fundamental Rights differ from Directive Principles.
- Know the three types of emergency, the amendment procedure and the local self-government scheme.

- India is a Union of 28 States and 8 Union Territories.
- Each state is administered by a Governor appointed by the President while each Union Territory is administered by the President through an Administrator or Lieutenant Governor (Art. 239).

Major Issues

- The provisions relating to Citizenship, elections, provisional Parliament, temporary and transitional positions were given immediate effect on The 26th Nov.1949.
- While the rest of the Constitution came into force on the 26th Jan. 1950. And this date is referred to in the Constitution as The Date of its Commencement.

Major Issues

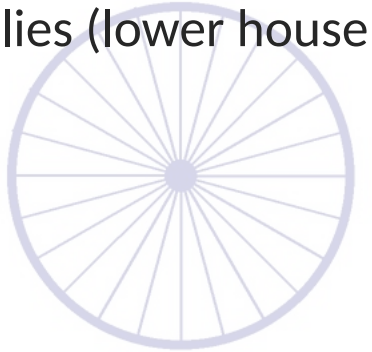

- The bicameral parliament is composed of the Council of States / Rajya Sabha, and the House of the People / Lok Sabha.
- The Council of States i.e. Rajya Sabha or the permanent house has a maximum of 250 members (245 at present), of whom the President nominates 12 persons having special knowledge or practical experience in respect of literature, art, science and social service.
- The remaining 238 seats are for representatives of the States (elected by MLAs) and of the Union Territories; one-third retire every second year.
- The House of the People has a maximum of 550 members (Art. 81): up to 530 from the States and up to 20 from the UTs. Present strength: 543.

Major Issues

- Six States have bicameral legislatures: Andhra Pradesh, Bihar, Karnataka, Maharashtra, Telangana and Uttar Pradesh. The others are unicameral.
- In Legislative Councils, one-third of the members retire every two years. Legislative Assemblies are chosen by direct election.

Constitution – Making

- The Constituent Assembly which had been elected for undivided India and held its first sitting on 9th Dec.1946, re-assembled on the 14th August 1947, as The Sovereign Constituent Assembly for the dominion of India.
- In regard to its composition the members were elected by indirect election by the members of The Provisional Legislative Assemblies (lower house only).

Constitution – Making

- Each Province and each Indian State or group of States were allotted the total no. of seats proportional to their respective population roughly in the ratio of 1:1000000.
- As a result The Provinces were to elect 292 members while the Indian States were allotted a minimum of 93 seats.
- The seats in each Province were distributed among the three main communities, Muslims, Sikh and general, in proportion to their respective populations.
- Members of each community in the Provisional Legislative Assembly elected their own representatives by the method of proportional representations with single transferable vote.

Constitution – Making

- Unfortunately as a result of a partition under the plan of June3, 1947.The territories, which fell under Pakistan and those members who were part of The Constituent Assembly, ceased to be members of the Constituent Assembly, which re-assembled on the 31st Oct.1947.
- The Assembly's strength fell to 299. The Constitution was adopted on 26 Nov 1949, and 284 members signed it on 24 Jan 1950.

Salient Features

- Fundamental Rights

"A state is known by the rights it maintains“.

They are

- Right to equality,
- Right to freedom,
- Right against exploitation,
- Right to freedom of Religion,
- Cultural and Educational rights and
- Right to constitutional remedies.
- Right to property (Article-31) originally a fundamental right was omitted by the 44th Amendment Act, 1978. It is now a legal right under Art. 300A.

Salient Features (1/2)

- Directive principles
- It embodies important principles like
  - Adequate means to livelihood,
  - Equal pay for both men and women,
  - Distribution of wealth so as to subserve the common good,
  - Early childhood care and education up to age six (Art. 45),
  - Right to work,
  - Public assistance in case of old age,
  - Unemployment,
  - Sickness and disablement,

Salient Features (2/2)

- The organisation of village Panchayats,
- Special care to the economically back ward sections of the people etc.

Salient Features (1/2)

- Fundamental Duties

These duties are:

- To abide by the Constitution and respect its ideals and institutions, the National Flag and the National Anthem;
- To cherish and follow the noble ideals, which inspired our national struggle for freedom;
- To uphold and protect the sovereignty, unity and integrity of India;
- To defend the country and render national service when called upon to do so;

Salient Features (2/2)

- to promote harmony and the spirit of common brotherhood amongst all the people of India transcending religious, linguistic, regional or sectional diversities, to renounce practices derogatory to the dignity of woman.

Salient Features

- Fundamental Duties

These duties are:

- To value and preserve the rich heritage of our composite culture;
- To protect and improve the natural environments including forests, lakes, rivers and wild life and to have compassion for living creatures;
- To develop scientific temper, humanism and the spirit of inquiry and reform;
- To safeguard public property and to abjure violence;
- To strive towards excellence in all spheres of individual and collective activity so that the nation constantly rises to higher levels of Endeavour and achievement.

Salient Features

- Secular State

A secular state is neither religious nor irreligious, or anti - religious. Rather it is quite neutral in matters of religion. India being a land of many religions, the founding fathers of the Constitution thought it proper to make it a secular state. India is a secular state, because it makes no discrimination between individuals on the basis of religion. Neither it encourages nor discourages any religion.

An Independent Judiciary

- The judiciary occupies an important place in our Constitution and it is also made independent of the legislature and the executive. The Supreme Court of India stands at the apex of single integrated judicial system. It acts as protector of fundamental rights of Indian citizens and guardian of the Constitution. If any law passed by the legislature or action taken by the executive contravenes the provisions of the Constitution, they can be declared as null and void by the Supreme Court. Thus, it has the power of judicial review.

Salient Features

- Single Citizenship

The Constitution of India recognises only single citizenship. In the USA, a person is a citizen of both the Union and a State.
